Charlotte cardin concerts 2025

As if sculpting a statue, we chip away at one layer after another to uncover our true selves. In doing so, we shed insecurities and inhibitions and embrace our identity. Charlotte Cardin continues to learn about herself through her music. The more she learns, the closer she connects. The Montréal-born and Paris-based singer, songwriter, and creator exhales raw truths through a haze of nocturnal production, leaving pieces of her story on tape. After generating hundreds of millions of streams and earning widespread praise courtesy of Harper's BAZAAR, The FADER, Interview, W Magazine & more, the four-time JUNO Award winner is opening up like never before. Surrounded by music as a kid, writing & performing always felt right. Following the Big Boy EP and Main Girl EP, Charlotte emerged as an international phenomenon with her 2021 debut Phoenix. At the 2022 JUNO Awards, the LP took home "Album of the Year" and "Pop Album of the Year," while "Meaningless" garnered "Single of the Year" and she personally received "Artist of the Year." Not to mention, it picked up the Felix Award for "Anglophone Album of the Year." Inciting unanimous tastemaker applause, HYPEBAE christened her "one of Canada's brightest young talents." Following sold out headline dates and powerhouse turns at Bonnaroo and Festival d'Été de Québec, she topped the bill at Osheaga, marking a momentous Montréal homecoming. Along the way, she carefully assembled what would become her forthcoming sophomore full-length. Share – copy and redistribute the material in any medium or format for any purpose, even commercially. Great show last night O'neara, with songs from her EP, lots of new songs never done live before in both English and French, and some great covers. She has such a rich and beautiful voice, with sultry lyrics and sophisticated musical arrangements. Hope to see these songs available on Apple Music and Spotify soon, and would love to see her live again!
